England-Turkey Don't be so modest. I wouldn't describe forcing Austria into Anarchy as bugging about. However I am confused about this force mix problem.

I thought you wanted me to build fleets?
France-Turkey In a short while you can start putting those fleets back in the box.
To France Here we are trying to stop the English hordes and you pull a funny over a straightforward build!
France-England Do not worry Nigel, the "poised to shatter France" came as no surprise, and only reflects poor play on my behalf.
The Czar - England & Turkey Many thanks comrades, the rightful capital has been

There are numerous game-end proposals this season, but all are defeated by standing order votes so I won't bother listing the proposals.

For what it's worth, the game-end proposal of last season was defeated, one vote in favour, three failures to vote also counting in favour, and one vote against.

So it's congratulations to Bob Kendrick who now joins the list of FOE winners awaiting the next winners game that will be run in Ode. Bob will no doubt be a probable, joining other probables of Tassell, Chapman and Northcott; with possibles of Moore and Marks; and doubtfuls of Norris and Rutt.

I'll wrap this game up next issue so your endgame statements are earnestly solicited. I'd be very grateful if you could send them as soon as possible, and well before the deadline at the latest. Report from Keith Loveys is on file, where it has been since A1907.

Russia-All Nice to see me making the headlines.

Anon When an animal is trapped in a corner with enemies all around, it knows not where to turn its head or escape, but lashes out at anything which moves. It will not run or cower, but in its death throes will bite all the more.

Me Dear friend, thank you for my only letter.

France(Govt)-World The youthful French President is now entering hibernation to revise for his damned 'O' levels, so don't expect any miracles in this game. (I suspect I won't be missed anyway.)

Eyrie-France Best of luck. Meanwhile it seems that two other players in this game have written you out prematurely.....

Austria-France I'm assuming you're now out, so I'm writing this to ask you to supply Richard with a game statement. Thank for the interest you took in this game, much appreciated.

Teddy-Twinbobs Sorry to see you go Twinbobs. By the way, I am the editor of the Zurich Times. Sorry for the mispronunciation, and good luck in future campaigns.

CREDITS Once again the cost of the issue is 24p (8 sides at 1p per side plus 16p postage). Overseas subscribers pay 8p plus actual cost of postage - those receiving it by personal delivery pay just 9p - those I trade with pay nowt. Balance of zine credit is shown in the box.

If the amount in the box is less than 30p I would strongly advise you to top it up if you want to receive next issue and if you want me to accept your orders, as insufficient credit to pay for the issue means orders may well be refused.

IMPORTANT *** I shall have to go to London for a week in the near future, but as yet don't know exactly when. Because of this I would strongly advise you not to rely on telephoned orders for next deadline. Should I be in London that week then telephoned orders will not be taken but the deadline will be adhered to!
